

Railway Budget: Populism out, Private in

Written by Administrator

Wednesday, 09 July 2014 08:37 - Last Updated Wednesday, 09 July 2014 08:54

 Centre for Reforms, Development and Justice (CRDJ) president Sidharth Mishra has defined the railway Budget presented by Sadananda Gowda as the first document of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's economic vision. In a detailed analysis, Mishra said, 'The resistance to populist demands and itch to get private participation can be safely said to be the cornerstone of the maiden budget presented by railway minister Sadananda Gowda and it's purported to, as the prime minister put it, act like the growth engine. Click here for the detail analysis 